 1. Flying with twin-jet aircraft was intensified over Justerbog between 11 and 17 May 1951. Contrary to previous observations, the aircraft flew in flights of three or in squadron formation. When approaching or leaving Altes Lager airfield the aircraft flew at low-level with landing gears extended. Flying was practiced every day between 6:30 a.m. and 7 p.m., except on 13 and 14 May. Jet fighters with one jet engine practiced flying on 15 May.
 2. On 20 May, 82 twin-jet aircraft were parked at Justerbog-Altes Lager airfield. Numbers ranging between 18 and 36 were seen on the planes. There was intensive flying with twin-jet planes. An undetermined number of conventional twin-engine aircraft were also parked at the field. *
